

Have you ever stopped to watch a squirrel perform acrobatics on a tree? Did you ever notice that sometimes the clouds have changed colour or shape? Do you listen to that bird calling outside your window each morning and wonder what he's doing?

'Me and My World' is a record of your observations of nature and the world around you. You could try sketching or drawing, plant a miniature garden, write a description, a story or a poem, take photographs, make a home for wildlife, collect natural objects such as leaves or flowers, keep a nature diary or collect data such as wildlife tallies.

Your long-term homework is a nature observation project called 'Me and My World'. There are no rules when it comes to your observation! Just tap into your senses, develop your observation skills, and discover your creative side.
